

Biosketch: Jesús Gil was born in Zaragoza, Spain, and earned his PhD in 2000 at Universidad Autónoma in Madrid. During his postdoc, he worked at UCL, CRUK and CSHL on p16INK4a regulation and senescence. Since 2005, he has led the Senescence Group at MRC LMS, Imperial College, investigating cellular senescence as a therapeutic target. Jesus Gil is a Professor at Imperial College, where he heads the Department of Molecular Sciences at the Institute of Clinical Sciences.